

The Anxiety Problem

A Common Problem

*2011 Thundershirt Dog Anxiety Survey; 17% suffer from noise anxiety alone and 13% from separation anxiety.

Appearing in Many Forms

Anxieties come in many forms: noise, separation, travel, crate, leash, strangers, other dogs, etc. And the symptoms of anxiety vary widely. From the less severe, including shaking, panting, hiding, or clinging to owners. To the most severe, including jumping through plate-glass windows, running into traffic, clawing through walls or even full seizures.

With No Good Solutions

- ▶ Drugs: Expensive, difficult to time, potentially harmful side effects.
- ▶ Behavior Training: Time consuming, dog specific, difficult to consistently implement, expensive.
- ▶ Doing Nothing: Unfortunately for many dogs, and their owners, a common approach.

Until Thundershirt

But whatever the form or severity, Thundershirt can help. And in most cases, no training is required.
